

DBUS ENERGY POLICY

Compañía del Tranvía de San Sebastián - Dbus - is essential when it comes to saving energy and improving the environment. It achieves this by continuously updating its vehicle fleet and investing in the best technologies available for its services, and participating in numerous local and international projects aimed at creating more sustainable transport systems while keeping its fleet and equipment in perfect condition.

By implementing this policy, the management has committed to establishing and maintaining an energy management policy that complies with all the requirements of ISO 50001.

In accordance with this policy, management guarantees that the types and amounts of energy used and consumed are appropriate and necessary for its activities and services.

Management is committed to continuous improvement:

- Performance and energy efficiency.
- The Energy Management System and its processes, including the design and suitable specification of activities, infrastructures, resources and production materials in general, to use.
- Acquisition and incorporation of optimal products and services for this policy, and the use of suitable suppliers according to this policy.
- The availability of information and resources wherever necessary.

The company undertakes to comply with all legal and other requirements regarding energy use, consumption, efficiency and performance.

All the above, while complying with our mission to provide a public transport system to passengers in the city, with our ongoing efforts to be leaders and to offer a competitive transport service, and our fundamental objective of providing optimal solutions to the mobility needs of current and potential users by supplying a high-quality service and practical information, with competitive costs, and contributing to the sustainability of our environment.

The application of this energy policy is supervised continuously and reviewed at least once a year by Management and as necessary to safeguard the efficiency of the Energy Management System and its objectives.
